

PRESIDENT GREET'S INSPECTORS; LAUDS COMPENSATION ACT

Slams at Roosevelt in Opening Address at Convention.

Indorsing the workmen's compensation act and the anti-phosphorus match bill now before Congress, and promising his support for the creation of any investigating commission required, further the purpose of factory inspectors, President Taft made the opening address at the twenty-sixth annual meeting of the International Association of Factory Inspectors, at the Shoreham this morning.

"There is so much pretense of reform," said the President in beginning, "to gain public support." He added after a pause, "that it is a real pleasure to be among the real workers."

This phrase was interpreted as having relation to the President's struggle, and it was greeted with smiles and applause.

Hopes Bill Will Pass.

Referring to the phosphorus match bill, the President said he hoped it would pass, indorsing this method of employing the taxing power to destroy an industry. He referred to the adequacy of such a method, and said that there were occasions when it should be used. The hope was expressed that Congress would provide for a commission to investigate occupational diseases.

The main part of the President's address was devoted to a discussion of the workmen's compensation act. He deplored the practice of some lawyers in beginning suits for damage on contingent fees.

"It is not the best part of the profession that is engaged in this practice," he said. "I do not mean that there are not many honorable men who are attorneys in this case. This act will eliminate two-fifths or possibly half of the present litigation of this nature and anything that will have such an effect is to be commended."

The injured workman should be protected by a law which will give him what he deserves and under which he may look forward to compensation as his right, as something that is due him just as is his wage envelope.

Deplores Delays.

The President inveighed against the delays of the law and said that from a pecuniary standpoint it is sometimes better for a man with a damage suit to be beaten in the first instance than to win after several years of expensive, tedious and nerve-racking litigation.

Opposition to the compensation act comes from a narrow view of it, he asserted, rather than a comprehension of the whole act and under which all injuries and all suits for compensation are to be eliminated.

The President was introduced by Edgar T. Davies, of Chicago, president of the association.

Factory inspectors from more than half the States were present, as well as representatives from several Canadian provinces.

The program of the next three days includes a number of discussions on industrial subjects, and it is expected that these will result in lively meetings.

At the meeting held in Lincoln last year the factory inspectors indulged in a struggle with the labor commission, and this has resulted in infusing new life into the organization now in convention.

"The Holy Calling of the Factory Inspector," by Dr. A. J. McElwain, resolutions on departed members, several of whom were long on the list, and a number of reports comprise the afternoon program.

This evening O. P. Hoff, of Oregon, will speak on "Laws for the Protection of Women Workers." G. W. W. Hanger, of the Bureau of Labor, will read a paper prepared by Thomas Kelly, of Ontario, on the progress of the association, and Miss Gertrude Beeks, of New York, will deliver a paper on "The Humanitarianism in Industry," in which the effects of welfare work done by the National Civic Federation in factories will be exhibited.

The convention hall, the banquet room of the Shoreham, is lined with large boards bearing types of notices and tags used in factory inspection in New York, Illinois, and other States.

New York is particularly well represented at the convention. Twenty-five delegates were appointed by the governor, John G. Thelen, chief factory inspector, appointed by Thomas Kelly, of Ontario, on the progress of the association, and Miss Gertrude Beeks, of New York, will deliver a paper on "The Humanitarianism in Industry," in which the effects of welfare work done by the National Civic Federation in factories will be exhibited.

The appointment of this commission, having for its purpose the formulation of better accident and fire prevention laws, followed upon the disaster in the Triangle shirt waist factory.

Something Accomplished.

Inspector Whalen believes that disaster taught lessons that will prove useful, despite the fact that the suits against the owners failed to accomplish punitive results.

The New York law is one of the best in the country, declares Mr. Whalen. The complete exhibit of its methods made at the convention, is expected to give commissioners and inspectors from less progressive States ideas that may later become law. The unclean bakery handled in summary manner. A red "unclean" tag is used. This is tied on the bakery door, the tools or machinery. If the place is not cleaned within forty-eight hours, the "unclean" tags are wired on tools or machinery and remain there until the place is clean. All work in a bakery can be stopped by this method. Once have the tags been removed and the owner in that instance was convicted and fined $100.

The notices exhibited are printed in every language. The Chinese laundries, located on the singular difficulty, were at first hard to handle. Inspector Whalen subpoenaed all the Chinese laundries, and when they were in court an interpreter explained clearly the law regarding cleanliness. Whalen had very little trouble with them since then.

HOTEL OWNERS RAISE WAR FUND TO FIGHT STRIKE

Despite Desertions, Waiters Hope to Force Recognition of Union.

NEW YORK, June 4.—Proprietors of 110 hotels and restaurants forming the Hotel Manufacturers' Association has raised a fund of $10,000 to fight the International Hotel Workers' Union, and today they declared that they were assured of victory in their contest. Each member has been assessed $100 for the "war fund."

Despite dissension in the ranks of the cooks and waiters, the leaders of the strike, however, the association asserted today that they would win and succeed in forcing recognition of the union.

When the strike leaders resumed their campaign today they declared that sixty-nine establishments had been crippled, and that 3,500 employees were on strike. The hotel and restaurant men admitted that they could not serve their full quota of patrons, but that they would be able to carry on the business if provided with proper protection. They said that help had been promised them by John H. Dasher, of the Elite Association, one of the six fraternal associations formed by waiters and chefs.

"They had promised Dasher that all of the unionists would be given their full quota of work," he said, "but they have asked, leaving the recognition of the union out of the question, if they will return to work."

Early today strikers were busy trying to get in line the employees of several downtown restaurants and hotels. Particular attention was paid to Whyte's restaurant, the Astor House, Kall's restaurant, and other places of like character.

Leaders in Waiters' Union Here "Fired" By Leading Hotels

Although today was the date scheduled for the filing of demands for an increased wage by a committee of the new waiters' union in Washington, Managers of hotels and cafes here had not been approached up to a late hour this afternoon, and ten delayed likely that such demand will not be met for a day or two more at least.

NEW INDICTMENTS ARE EXPECTED IN M'NAMARA BRIBERY

Special Grand Jury Called in Los Angeles to Investigate.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 4.—That new indictments will be returned in connection with the alleged bribery of jurors in the McNamara murder trial was believed today, following the announcement that a special grand jury had been called to investigate. It is believed, however, that the chief purpose of the grand jury will be to secure additional evidence for the State in the Darrow bribery trial. Probably several persons here, not connected with the bribery charges, may be named in true bills.

Attorney Earl Rogers, of the Darrow defense, continued his cross-examination of Bert H. Franklin, the State's star witness, today. Rogers has devoted much attention to the exact time the McNamara brothers agreed to plead guilty. Franklin testified that he had met Lincoln J. Steffens and George Lockwood, whom Darrow is accused of bribing, on the night of November 23 last, and that at the meeting Darrow had given him a list of names of the ninth venire in the McNamara case. It contained the name of George Lockwood, whom Darrow is accused of bribing.

The defense will allege that Darrow could not have been guilty of bribing the jurors because the McNamara brothers had agreed to plead guilty before the meeting Franklin told of. Rogers declared Lincoln Steffens and several other important witnesses would testify to that effect.

Rival Rowdy Gangs Fight Over a "Queen"

NEW YORK, June 4.—Rival gangs of Chinatown rowdies, who fought a revolver battle last night to gain possession of a woman, known as the "queen," who had scored beneath the wings of the Tombs police court, where five of their leaders had been jailed over for the grand jury a few minutes before.

Forty or more shots were fired before the reserves could reach the street. The gangs melted away before the blue-coats, and but one man was arrested. Jack Zelig, leader of the gang, who was shot in the head and probably will die.

Zelig led his Chinatown gang in quest of the missing "queen." There he encountered "Louis the Lump" and his followers, and they fought it out until the police arrested the leaders, who were later arraigned in court.

H. Adkinson led the raid, and lookouts must have given information for the men in the blind tiger were awaiting the officers.

A demand to surrender was met by a volley. Officer Pollock fell, wounded by three bullets. The firing continued, two inmates of the "tiger" being killed and one of the raiders seriously wounded. The barricade hoisted a tablecloth as a white flag and surrendered.

ANNAPOLIS CITIZENS PLEDGE SUPPORT TO NEW STEAMER LINE

Enthusiastic Meeting Held in House of Delegates Today.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 4.—Under the auspices of the local Chamber of Commerce, the citizens of Annapolis held an enthusiastic meeting in the house of delegates hall of the State house this afternoon, for the purpose of aiding the new line of steamers which connects Annapolis with the Washington, Baltimore and Annapolis electric line, and unites the Eastern Shore of Maryland with the three cities joined by the electric railroad.

Delegates were present from the commercial and civic organizations of Baltimore, Washington, and points on the Eastern Shore, and the universal opinion was that the new traffic enterprise had a great future, and would be of vast benefit to all the points which had been brought into a closer connection.

Particular stress was laid upon the points that by the new line communication with the principal points on the Eastern Shore was brought one hour closer to Baltimore in time and two and a half hours closer to Washington; that there was need of less handling of all kinds of freight, and that it was landed in the heart of all the cities connected, and not on the wharves. It was stated confidently that ultimately a tremendous business must result from bringing the wonderful producing section of the Eastern Shore into closer contact with the markets of Baltimore and Washington.

It was stated that owing to the poor transportation facilities, that business between the Eastern Shore and Washington had almost ceased, but there was every indication from what had already been said that a splendid market would now be opened in Washington for the fruits, berries, vegetables, and water products of that section. It was also pointed out that its effect would be to help Baltimore regain much of the business which had been lost to Philadelphia.

The people of Annapolis, as well as those of the Eastern Shore, are heartily in line the new transportation movement.

Two Men Are Killed In Blind Tiger Raid

WHITESBURG, Ky., June 4.—Two men were killed and three injured during the raid on a blind tiger near the town of Jenkinson, early today. Deputy Sheriff Pollock and United States Marshal J. W. and J. H. Adkinson led the raid, and lookouts must have given information for the men in the blind tiger were awaiting the officers.

HOUSE REFUSES TO COMPROMISE ON BATTLESHIPS

Stands Firm Despite Customary Appropriation Made by Senate.

The House takes a standpoint attitude today on the battleship question, following the stand of the Senate for the customary appropriation for two battleships. Chairman Padgett, of the House Naval Affairs Committee, expressed the conviction that the House would insist upon its "no battleship" program, in accordance with the mandate of two Democratic caucuses.

Congressman Henry, of the Rules Committee, also predicted the House will refuse a compromise on the battleship controversy.

One of the leading candidates for the chairmanship of the Naval Affairs Committee, Mr. Redfield, is among the few Democrats who are in favor of the increase of the navy at this session. Mr. Redfield is also a member of the action of the Democratic caucus, and said today:

"I am in favor of two ships, but if this fails, I think there is a strong possibility that one vessel finally will be authorized by the House. We need a strong navy, and if the program of two battleships a year is not maintained, we will soon take fifth place among the naval powers of the world."

No Need of Ships.

Congressman Buchanan, a member of the Naval Affairs Committee, asserted "there is no chance for a compromise on one battleship, much less two. We don't need any more battleships now. All this fake war scare and agitation for battleships only result in more profit for the Steel trust."

Talk of a third caucus of the House Democrats on battleships is heard today, but no petition has yet been circulated for another party council. There would be two Democratic caucuses, one to vote for at least one new battleship, if it were not for the caucus mandate. About a dozen Democrats were absolved from the action of the prior caucuses on the ground that their constituents expected them to vote for the usual increase.
